Kay LeClaire

Summited Mt. Everest, 2009

Kay LeClaire, age 60, reached the summit of the 29,035-foot Mt. Everest peak on Friday May 22nd. She then began her descent from the summit after climbing for more than 10 hours in cold, windy weather. Kay departed Spokane on March 29 for her fourth attempt at Everest in five years. Come and meet and honor this amazing woman who will share a part of her dream.

Leadership Seminar: Living Your Dream – Taking Control of Your Success

In an age of opportunity, more women are starting their own businesses. Many of us are hampered by internal and external forces that we are oblivious to - forces that dramatically limit the achievement of our personal goals - and without our awareness.

In this interactive workshop, Dr. Laura Asbell illuminates these forces, giving positive strategies to use them to your advantage.

You Won't Want To Miss This Workshop! Clarify and learn ways to actualize your personal financial and workplace goals. Recognize hidden forces that may hinder your success. Learn to use your feminine strengths to your advantage. Learn strategies towards growth, achievement and success.

Banquet

Top off the afternoon with networking, followed by a delicious dinner catered by Beacon Hill. The banquet is held at the beautiful Lincoln Center, and includes the introduction of Kay LeClaire, guest of honor, and a keynote address by Beverly Kuykendall.
